MISS ANNIE BRADY

Classroom News:

Reading:

Last week in reading we finished up the last of our procedural mini lessons. Tomorrow, we start guided reading! Guided reading is maybe my favorite part of the day. Being able to work with students in small groups is so beneficial! As a class we will be focused on the reading comprehension skill of main idea and supporting details and the metacognitive strategy that we will be focused on is “asking questions”. For more details about reading, please see our classroom website! <http://missannamariibrady-sclass.weebly.com/>

Writing:

Last week in writing, we finished up introducing/reviewing the six writing traits. This week in writing, students will choose one of the drafts that they have been working on and take that draft all the way through the writing process. Once students finish their draft, we will write a rubric together as a class and assess our first writing piece!

Math:

This week in math, we are wrapping up the first unit, our assessment will be Friday. We will be reviewing throughout the week, however if you are interested in studying at home, please review the following topics with your kiddo: Prime/Composite Numbers, patterns, finding the “nth arrangement”, mean, median, mode, range, and line plots. I will also post a review to the website as well as attach it to this email!

Note from Miss Brady :)

Thank you so much to those parents that could make it in to our reading workshop last week! Last week I was finished up reading with students and tomorrow we start our guided reading! Our next parent visit will be Monday, October 12 from 8:45-9:45, this is Math Workshop time. If you can make it, great! Please make sure to have a current limited criminal background check on file!

If you have any questions about how your child is doing and would like to meet before the end of quarter one, please don't hesitate to contact me and we can set a time. Thank you!
